Ron-

I am sitting in my "new" office the day after our space workshop with you. I want to tell you I truly had no idea of the impact of my relationship to the space around me. I was completely unconscious. And now that I am conscious, I wonder how much the clutter around me really affected me, as I now feel a whole new world opening up. The possibilities I am now present to are profound.

I feel like this is a new beginning—a cleansing of the past. I am ready to create outcomes and results that did not seem possible before the space workshop. When we first started the workshop, I imagined how I could be more organized, and feel better about working in a clear space. I also could see how I would be able to make my office a true expression of myself by removing all the clutter and making space for an expression of who I am. And, I readily understood how this could make me more productive.

What I did not understand, until now, is how all that clutter bound me to a past that I could not change, and how it dictated my way of operating, and the standards I held for myself. Trust me when I tell you "my game" has been elevated on every level. I'm ready to take on client projects, which have weighed me down in the past, with renewed spirit, clarity and lightness. I am ready to support my co-workers in a whole new way, as I am present to what an absolutely incredible team of people I have the privilege to work with. I am also committed to help complete our company space so that it works for each and every one of us.

Thank you for making such a difference, and getting me back in touch with my inspiration.

Warm Regards,
